HILLCREST HIGH SCHOOL

RUGBY TEAM WINNERS

Playing at Blairmore Saturday last, the Hillcrest high school rugby squad ran roughshod over the Blairmore squad to register a convincing 38 to 1 triumph. A steady front line backing up the spectacular forward passing of Ed. Seaman gave Hillcrest their brilliant win. Warner opened the scoring by kicking to the deadline for Blairmore's only point. From then on Hillcrest completely dominated the play. A series of sparkling end runs, coupled with an aerial attack, started Hillcrest on their scoring spree. Blairmore could do nothing as the Hillcrest front line held them in check, while the backfielders began piling up points. Panek, Draper and Seaman scored for Hillcrest, Seaman converting three touchdowns. Great praise is due to Coach Cyril Richards of the

NEW FIRE EXTINGUISHER

Firemen responding to an alarm which reported an automobile ablaze on a highway near Mission, Texas, found the fire out when they reached the car and the motor spattered liberally with the dripping remains of ripe tomatoes. The driver explained that a farmer drove by, saw his predicament and offered the tomatoes as fire extinguishers. The men stood off and bombarded the blazing engine, putting out the fire in a few minutes.

Thirty years ago last Wednesday, Dr. H. M. Tory was installed as head of the newly inaugurated University of Alberta. Succeeding presidents were Dr. Wallace and the present Dr. Kerr. The enrollment of the university has grown from 45 in 1908 to 2000 at the present time.

Hillcrest team. In a short time he has developed an amazingly powerful squad, composed of a rugged front-line and a shifty, fast-moving backfield. Hillcrest fans are all wishing to see their local outfit in action on their own grounds.

Memory Pictures of Home

Home "interiors" less photographed than most subjects, become precious in after years. They are easy to make if time exposure is used.

RARE is the person of middle age who retains a good memory-image of the home or homes in which he lived as a child, and who does not wish he could.

How the exterior of the house looked is not so difficult to recall, but once-familiar details of living rooms, how the furniture was arranged, what pictures were on the walls, the appearance of the fireplace, how the stairway looked, how the windows were curtained, grow vague with the passing years—unless photographs of these rooms taken at the time are available to refresh the memory.

Chances are, in the case of most grown-ups of middle age and older, no such pictures were taken. But in these days when there is a camera in almost every household, what a pity, really, to let youngsters grow up and leave home, without any pictures ever being taken of the living rooms and bedrooms in which they spent so many of their childhood hours! It is probably because such pictures can be made at almost any time that we are apt to postpone taking them. Since they can now be made easily with any camera, by daylight, why, with all this time available, should we any longer neglect to take them? Here are a few hints on taking views of interiors:

Since no movement of the subject needs to be considered, time exposures are best, whether by day-light or artificial light; the time depending, of course, on the film used, the amount of light and the stop opening in the lens.

HILLCREST ENJOYS SWING TO BETTER TIMES

HILLCREST, Nov. 26.—The wheels of industry in this mining community are turning at full speed, indicating a swing to "better times" with the outlook for the Christmas season brighter than in several years. Local merchants, business men and post office officials see an extremely busy Christmas rush. However, the unemployed situation remains in the same needy category as it was last fall, although the local single men's unemployed association are relieving the stress to a certain extent through a series of tag days and social activities. The first of a series of what drives and dances will be held in the Catholic hall on Monday evening, while large posters already display a grand Christmas dance to be held in the Union hall on Christmas Eve with the popular Arcadians' orchestra in attendance.

Looking to the community industry, the Hillcrest Collieries are expanding with many of the recent improvements already completed. Construction of an additional south wing, accommodating several new coal-bins and loading apparatus, is proceeding rapidly at the tipple, under contract of Charlie Sartoris, Blairmore contractor. The new structure will almost double the coal storing and loading capacity of the present plant.

The community in general is thriving under a miniature improvement boom. Many homes have been modernized. The old-fashioned cellars have given way to an unusually large number of up-to-date basements. Additions and exterior improvements are noted on a large scale. At present vacant buildings are at a premium.

In the earlier part of the year the Welsh brothers established a modern garage on a vacant lot on the main street and are now firmly established in the business life of Hillcrest, having recently stuccoed the wooden structure and installed a modern steam heating system. A short time ago, Cole's theatre received a new coat of paint on the main street frontage, with extensive renovations on the interior of the building.

Through the department of public works, local relief recipients have been employed in grading the streets, improving drainage facilities and culverts at necessary points and constructed two Scottish type bridges, built almost entirely of stones, improving the cleanliness of the community to a great extent.—Hillcrest correspondent to Lethbridge Herald.

BAKING CONTESTS PROVE INTERESTING

The Columbus hall was packed to standing room for the baking contest staged by the Robin Hood Milling Co. and sponsored by the Girl Guides of the Crow's Nest Pass.

During the judging, the Guides served tea. All baking entries became the property of the Guides, and these were used for the tea tables. The prize winning exhibits were raffled. The proceeds from the tea tables and raffles all went to the general fund of the Crow's Nest Pass Girl Guides' Association, and will materially help their annual camp fund. Judges were Mr. T. J. REID-PATTINSON WEDDING

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pattinson on Saturday at 5 p.m., when their only daughter, Jean, became the bride of Mr. Harold Reid, youngest son of Mr. Arthur Reid, of Coleman. Rev. A. E. Larkie, of Blairmore, officiated.

A large white wedding bell, white and pink streamers and amilax were the decorative features, the background being an effective setting of white carnations and large chrysanthemums.

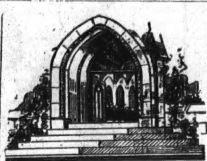

The bride was dressed in a floor length gown of pale pink silk net, cut with swing skirt, pointed collar, and tucking at the neck. The sleeves, of elbow length, were banded with a double reaching of the net. She wore a corsage bouquet of deep pink roses.

Miss Rene Duncan, of Blairmore, the bride's attendant, wore a sheer crepe floor length gown of blue. Her corsage bouquet was of pink roses.

Mr. Robert Pattinson, brother of the bride, supported the groom.

Mrs. Pattinson, mother of the bride, wore wine velvet, with corsage of white carnations.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, white carnations, large chrysanth-

WANT BETTER ENFORCEMENT OF MOTOR LAWS

Ottawa.—The first national safety conference passed resolutions favoring stricter enforcement of laws dealing with drunken drivers, national uniformity in automobile license requirements and traffic laws and compulsory inspection of motor vehicles twice a year.

The conference, ending its sessions, deplored the failure to check and punish adequately persons driving cars while under the influence of liquor or narcotics. It urged a proclamation be issued by provincial governments, under "sponsorship" of the Dominion administration, calling for observance of a national safety week in 1937.

Another resolution said the conference "views with alarm" interference with enforcement of traffic regulations and urged all organizations co-operate in backing law enforcement agencies. The resolution did not enlarge on the point of interference but it was taken to mean "fixing" of court summonses for traffic law violations.

Col. Anatole Plante of Montreal, president of the Dominion Automobile Safety Council, which called the convention, urged that conference keep up the work started at the meeting. He expressed hope a second conference would be held next year.

The conference took no action on the suggestion that it endorse compulsory automobile insurance, expressing the view in discussion that the system in force for several years in Massachusetts had not been an unqualified success.

Walter L. Saunders of Ottawa, district engineer of the Ontario department of highways, said most accidents occurred on the best highways, indicating safety does not depend entirely on good roads.

Mayor Stanley Lewis, of Ottawa, described the automobile as the "most arrogant, dictatorial animal we have ever had on our highways" and urged promotion of educational work as means of reducing traffic accidents.

The mayor advocated establishment of schools for training police officers in use of standardized traffic signals and regulations. He urged lectures by police to school children to impress on them the necessity of caution in avoiding accidents.

Science and education, he said, had reduced death from disease and surgery the death toll from the "modern disease," traffic accidents, could be reduced in the same way.

Superintendent A. H. L. Mellor of the criminal investigations branch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, remarked that many highways were inadequate to accommodate the volume of traffic passing over them. He advocated nationwide standardization of traffic laws by the Dominion government or through provincial co-operation.

Show Horses Injured

Believe Hypodermic Needle Used On Animals At Royal Winter Fair

Toronto.—Owners of three horses from western Ontario stables at the Royal Winter Fair disclosed their horses, with a total value of nearly $7,000, had been injured by what they believed was a hypodermic needle.

The horses: Bobby Zymbor, owned by C. Cole, Delhi; Ceylon Downner, owned by Innes stable, Simcoe; Patricia Volo, owned by Earl E. Foster, Galt.

The first casualty was suffered when Cole returned to the horse show building from supper to find his horse bleeding. Later Foster and the Innes stable attendants found their animals hurt.

The three men made public the injuries and speculation was aroused whether there was any connection between these attacks and the collapse of a Toronto woman at the dog show after she was allegedly stabbed by a needle-wielder.

R.C.M.P. Enlistments

Many Applicants Each Year, But Only Some 200 Accepted

Montreal.—Between 4,000 and 5,000 men seek enlistment in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police each year but only some 200 are accepted, Major-General Sir James H. MacBrien, commissioner of the force, told members of the Montreal Junior board of trade.

"There is still some romance in the R.C.M.P.," he said as he dealt briefly with the northern work of his men. About 125 of the 8,000 men from the force are active in northern fields Sir James said.

Endorse Trade Pacts

Chamber Of Agriculture Urges Continuation Of Empire Agreements

Toronto.—The Canadian Chamber of Agriculture endorsed a resolution urging continuation of the empire reciprocal trade agreements.

The chamber also urged the Dominion government "to give such terms with respect to the importation of British and empire goods as are calculated to develop trade and also facilitate the exportation of Canadian agricultural products."

Appreciation of the action of the Dominion government in negotiating the reciprocal trade agreement with the United States was voiced. The chamber also congratulated the Dominion administration on maintenance of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act and believed it should be extended to deal more rapidly with farm indebtedness.

A delegation left Toronto to place proposals of the chamber regarding wheat marketing and other agricultural subjects before Hon. James Gardiner, Dominion minister of agriculture.

The delegation included J. H. Weston, Regina, who was elected chairman of the chamber. Directors elected: J. H. Weston; W. C. McKenzie, Alberta Co-operative Council; Major E. E. Hutton, British Columbia; C. H. Burnell, Manitoba; H. H. Hannam, Ontario; P. A. McIsaac, maritimes; A. H. Mercer, Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation; L. F. Burrow, Canadian Horticultural Council.

Marketing Wheat

Want Wheat Board Operations To Extend To Coarse Grains

Calgary.—Five recommendations to aid Canadian farmers were set forth in the annual report of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, made public by L. C. Brouillette, of Regina, at the 14th annual meeting of the Alberta wheat pool.

They were:

1. That the Canadian wheat board operations be extended to coarse grains.
2. That the board should set up its own marketing agencies.

That international co-operation should be sought with the object of obtaining price levels for surplus wheat, fair both to producers and consumers.

4. That Canada, through trade agreements, should grant tariff concessions for the purpose of enlarging markets for Canadian wheat.

5. If, after all efforts have been made, the average annual wheat surplus of Canada cannot be absorbed, that necessary legislation be enacted providing for a quota system of deliveries from the farm.

Peace Award Annoys Nazis

Nobel Prize Bestowed On German Pacifist, Terms Issue

Berlin.—The German government termed award of the 1935 Nobel peace prize to Carl von Ossietzky, German pacifist just released from custody, a "challenge and an insult" in an official statement.

The biting expression of Nazi irritation asserted that "with Ossietzky the Nobel peace prize fell for the first time on one who was sentenced by the highest court of his country as a traitor."

The statement promised a further "direct reply" of a nature not revealed.

It was distributed as a commentary on an Oslo item by the German news agency briefly announcing the award.

"Bestowing the Nobel prize on a notorious traitor," the statement continued, "is an impudent challenge and insult to the new Germany. A proper, direct answer will follow."

Matter Under Consideration

But No Decision Reached Regarding Trans-Canada Air Service

Ottawa.—Organization of trans-Canada air services the Dominion government hopes to see in operation some time next year is occupying officials at the present time but developments have not yet reached the stage where any details may be published, Transport Minister C. D. Howe said.

What form the coast-to-coast operating concern will take has been a matter of much conjecture but the minister indicated no definite decisions had been reached in this respect. It is not anticipated the government will go into the air mail and passenger business itself and there is a strong rumor that the company will be largely controlled by the two railway systems, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific. 2179

Increase Russian Armament

Soviets Will Continue To Fight "Fascistic Barbarism"

Moscow.—The usually taciturn Joseph Stalin approved a new and separate military industry commissariat, which led informed observers to believe he wished to accelerate Russian armament.

The idea was the only one accepted of the 100,000 suggestions offered for the new constitution which Stalin formally presented for ratification by the eighth All-Union Congress of Soviets.

The new ministry, Stalin said, would be evolved from the heavy industry commissariats which have been in charge of armaments.

The major part of Stalin's speech, as secretary-general of the Communist party, was devoted to an attack on Fascism and assurance that the Communist party would continue to be the only party in Russia.

Speaking on the day when an anti-Communist agreement between Germany and Japan was announced in Berlin, Stalin told the congress the new constitution gave moral support to all those fighting Fascism.

He said the constitution—which Stalin is generally credited with having written himself—was a new weapon in the hands of the people in fighting "Fascistic barbarism."

HIGH TRIBUTE IS PAID TO GEN. SIR ARTHUR CURRIE

London.—High tribute to General Sir Arthur Currie, commander-in-chief of the Canadian corps in the Great War, and Sir John Monash, the Australian general, is contained in the sixth and final volume of the war memoirs of David Lloyd George.

The volume asserts "seniority and ability" were the dominant factors in army promotion. It assails several army leaders for avoiding the field of battle.

"In the Dominion forces, General Currie, the Canadian commander, and Sir John Monash, the Australian, were both in civil life when the war opened. The greatness of the abilities of Monash was not drawn to the attention of the cabinet in any despatches," Lloyd George writes. "Professional soldiers could hardly be expected to advertise the fact that the greatest strategist in the army was a civilian when the war began."

Both Currie and Monash proved themselves brilliant military leaders and went right through to the top, he continues. They had a natural aptitude for soldiering and the fact of their being officers in impersonal armies gave full play to their gifts.

"Monash was, according to the testimony of those who knew him well, his genius for war and what he accomplished by it, the most resourceful general in the whole British army."

At another point Lloyd George describes the Canadians as the "fire-hardened point of our attack whenever any difficult thrust had to be undertaken. After the Somme battle they were marked out as storm troops and whenever the Germans found the Canadians in the line they prepared for the worst."

Discussing promotions, he writes: "No one reached the highest ranks in the British army except those who were there or thereabouts when the war began. No civilian rose above the rank of brigadier-general. Seniority and ability were dominant factors in army promotion. Deportment counted a good deal. Brains count a bad fourth."

Automobile Menace

Says Drunken Drivers Should Have Their Licenses Taken Away

Ottawa.—Driving of automobiles should be a subject on the curricula of schools and colleges, Recorder Leonie Plante, of Montreal, declared at the national safety conference.

In some schools, he said, pupils were prohibited from having cars and in others they were allowed them only with their parents' consent. Thus the question whether they should have cars was not dependent on ability to drive, but on "parental indulgence."

Drunken drivers should have their licenses taken away, the recorder said, and all judges and recorders should have power to suspend licenses.

"The automobile with certain hands at the wheel is Canada's 'greatest murderer,'" said Prof. W. D. Tait, chairman of the department of psychology at McGill University.

Recorder Plante advocated establishment of speed zones. Controlled speed is not a menace, he stated, and there are places within cities where a driver may safely travel 40 or 50 miles an hour when he sees every thing is clear.

Nine Killed In Collision

Train Plows Into Elevated Railroad Car In Chicago

Chicago.—A steel electric train which plowed into a wooden elevated railroad car left human wreckage in its wake—nine dead, and at least 65 injured.

The steel train struck from the rear near a northside station, where the eight-car elevated train, loaded with home-bound workers, waited for a signal from a dispatcher's tower.

The three-car steel train drove almost the length of the last elevated car, littering the tracks with dead and injured passengers.

Chief Deputy Coroner Victor L. Schaefer announced he would start an inquest. General Manager Bernard J. Fallon, of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company, termed the accident "one of the worst in the history of the lines," said the firm would conduct a separate inquiry.

Missing Airliner Found

Cairo, Egypt.—An Egyptian airliner, missing for two days on a Mediterranean flight, was found safe with its occupants uninjured after a forced landing on the Egyptian coast. Besides four crew members, occupants of the plane included a Japanese business man and Father Anastase, a scholar and student of Arabic, sworn to eternal silence.

Charles W. Simpson, R.C.A., of Montreal (above, left) and James Crockett, prominent Montreal artist and designer (right) are two of the three judges who will select from 6,000 Canadian maple leaves the five most beautiful and the two largest, thus distributing $215 in prizes in the fourth annual maple leaf contest sponsored by the Canadian Government, through the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa, in co-operation with the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway.

Want Representation

Ontario Farm Women Want One Woman On Every Rural School Board

Toronto.—United Farm Women of Ontario are ready to swing into a campaign to see that every rural school board has at least one woman member. A resolution to this effect was passed unanimously at the convention of the organization. It read:

"Whereas the second plank in the women's platform laid down at the time the U.F.W.O. was organized 18 years ago, advocating the rural woman's right to sit as a school trustee has been attained,

"Therefore be it resolved that we now set as our objective one woman on every rural school board."

Mrs. Orval Hind, Bear Lake, Dover Township, Huron county, was elected unanimously for a third term as president.

Message From His Majesty

King Edward Sends Note Of Sympathy To Family Of Rancher

High River, Alta.—A message of sympathy from His Majesty King Edward VIII. was delivered as funeral services were held for Joseph Harrison "Tut" Brown, pioneer Alberta rancher whose range borders the royal "E.P." ranch.

A message from the private secretary to His Majesty was received by the secretary to Governor-General Tweedsmuir, which read:

"His Majesty asks that his sympathies be conveyed to the family of Joseph Harrison 'Tut' Brown."

With Frank Beddingfield, Brown purchased the range now forming the E.P. ranch late in the '80's.

GERMANY AND JAPAN SIGN AN ANTI-RED PACT

Berlin.—Germany and Japan signed an agreement directed against the Communist Internationale. The alliance was signed at the foreign office after the government had announced it would publish an "official declaration."

Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to Great Britain, who is considered Chancellor Hitler's personal adviser on foreign affairs, affixed his signature on behalf of the German government. Japan was represented by Japanese Ambassador Kintomo Matsuoka.

Ambassadors of all foreign nations were summoned by express invitation for the ceremony.

The agreement, asserting the International Communist organization, with headquarters at Moscow, is aimed "at directing and violating existing states with all means at its command," said the two governments believed: tolerance of such alleged interference "threatens world peace at large."

Hence Japan and Germany bound themselves for a period of five years to:

1. Inform and consult with each other and execute co-operative action to combat Communist Internationale activities.
2. Invite third parties "whose domestic peace is endangered by the disruptive activities of the Communist Internationale" to join them.
3. Exchange constant police information on the subject.
4. Take strict measures at home or abroad against persons who directly or indirectly serve the Communist Internationale, and,
5. Co-operate in an international campaign against Communism through a permanent German-Japanese commission.

"For this agreement," it states, "both the German and Japanese texts are regarded as original versions and become effective the day of signing and is in force for a period of five years."

"The high contracting states will, at the proper time before expiration of this period, arrive at an understanding with each other concerning the form this co-operation is to take."

Finally, a permanent commission of representatives of both nations was created to make effective the co-operative international campaign against Communism.

Soviet Russia, contending the German-Japanese agreement was a "military alliance" against the Moscow government, refused recently to sign a new agreement allowing Japan to fish in eastern Siberian waters.

The fishing arrangement, regarded as highly important to Japan because she gets the bulk of her fish from these waters, would have extended the rights for five years. The present agreement expires Dec. 31.

SAFETY ZONES ARE ESTABLISHED AT BARCELONA

London.—The admiralty said here the Spanish insurgent leader, General Francisco Franco, had established "safety zones" for neutral shipping in Barcelona harbor in response to repeated British demands.

Franco's capitulation to the British demands came while eight submarines and the depot ship Cyclops were proceeding from Malta to Spanish waters.

The move, informed sources said, was expected to relieve much of the tension created when Franco declared he would blow up Barcelona, if necessary, to halt shipments of arms to his foes.

The admiralty statement announcing the Barcelona guarantee said:

"The following message has been received from the rear admiral of the third cruiser squadron in H.M.S. Arethusa: 'The military governor at Mallorca informed me that safety zones had been fixed by the (Franco) naval staff for foreign ships in the port of Barcelona.'"

Reports that a Spanish Fascist sloop opened fire on a Soviet steamship in the Straits of Gibraltar were current here.

Reuter News Agency despatch from Gibraltar said the Soviet ship, whose name was not known, was passing through the straits bound east and was fired six miles off Europe Point when the Fascist craft opened fire.

There are 40,000 Spanish insurgent soldiers, several hundred planes and almost as many Italian pilots concentrated at Mallorca for an attack on Barcelona, the correspondent of the News Chronicle said.

Radio Programs

Major Gladstone Murray Would Have Them Essentially Canadian

Ottawa.—Development of radio programs that have an essentially Canadian flavor—entertainment that could originate in no other place—was the objective laid down before a conference of broadcasting officials by Major Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Program directors and arrangers from Halifax to Vancouver, members of the corporation staff and many of them associated with national and private broadcasting since radio's inception, attended the meeting in Major Murray's office. All were invited to offer suggestions and assist in carrying out the new corporation's policy of building up a basic structure of distinctly Canadian radio entertainment.

The conference was a part of the general survey being made by the corporation of Canada's available talent and possibilities of more extended development.

Trawler To Be Returned

Girl Fat To Be Sailed Back To England

Georgetown, British Guiana.—The Grimsby trawler Girl Fat, which ended an illicit cruise half-way round the world in Georgetown last June is soon to be sailed back to England by Commander R. W. Lawrence, wartime naval navigator, it was learned recently.

From 500 applicants, including 30 women, a new crew and slate of officers, have been chosen by Lady Houston, noted English sportswoman who bought the Girl Fat. They will be under Commander Lawrence.

Lady Houston has announced plans to give the trawler to Capt. George Osborne and the fishermen who accompanied him when the vessel disappeared from the North Sea fishing fleet and died down the coasts of Europe and Africa, across the Atlantic to South America.

Osborne and his brother Jim, a former Toronto resident, are now serving prison sentences for stealing the trawler.

Army Team Wins

Toronto.—Canada's army team swept to victory at the Royal Winter Fair horse show and captured the international officers' team challenge trophy, donated by G. Howard Ferguson, former Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain.

The trophy, concluding event in the officers' jumping competitions that featured the horse show, was won in a contest with army teams from the United States, Irish Free State and Chile.

ON MOUTACHEES
(Local Victims Please Note)

I have often thought of writing a book on the advantageous qualities of the moustache. A person who has never capitulated on the subject might say offhand that a moustache is useless. However, I wish to point out a few of its better qualities.

If I were writing a long dissertation on the subject, I would classify moustaches into bushy, scraggly, bristly, droopy, and so on, at great length; but as my time and space are limited, I must speak rather generally.

In the first place, moustaches may supply almost endless enjoyment for children. I remember how, as a child, I would sit entranced throughout a meal and watch the gymnastics of a visitor's moustache as he engaged in the process of mastication. Then as he drank his tea my soul would be filled with ecstasy, upon wondering how many drops would alight on the tablecloth, before he would be able to dry out his facial adornment by manual inhalations.

Moustaches may be a source of amusement for grown-ups as well as for children, for both young and old can play the ancient game of beaver. As played by children, the game is more strenuous than when played by adults. Doubtless, everyone knows the fundamentals of the game, but lest anyone should be ignorant of this intellectual pastime I shall briefly explain it. Upon seeing a man with a moustache, the child must run up to him, tag him, and shout "Beaver." The first to accomplish this feat obtains one point. Or upon seeing a man with an exceptionally large and bushy growth, he may shout "King Beaver," and obtain five points. The child who first gets twenty points wins the game on the point system only, and thus does away with any needless exertion.

A moustache may be for adornment as well as for amusement. Think of the cynical smile it may hide, the protruding jaw it may balance, the yellow fangs it may cover up. It may even conceal an unsightly scar.

In the colder climates a moustache may be useful for the warmth it provides. By this time everyone must see that when I speak of moustaches I mean moustaches, and do not include "cookie dusters" or "tickle teasers," which resemble the scrubby growth above the tell line.

Perhaps one of the most practical uses of the moustache is its utility as a cooling agent for hot beverages. It can be dipped into the liquid, then lifted out where the scalding matter quickly becomes aerated, and may readily be inhaled.

The moustache may also be used for something to bite on when one is angry. (Of course you must be sure to bite your own to avoid any hard feelings). Or it may be twisted when one is nervous. Young men sometimes like to grow a moustache in miniature to prove that they have outgrown the age of adolescence.

I once heard of a German soldier's waxed moustache being used as a hat rack for the officers. I have also heard that if one has a hare lip, a moustache will make an excellent soup strainer, but since both waxed moustaches and hare lips are rather scarce in this country, perhaps the utilitarian value in these respects is reduced to the minimum.

There are, of course, many other advantages, as well as certain disadvantages, in possessing a moustache. I hope I have made it clear that it is well worth while to grow one, if only for the purpose of putting a little more sunshine into a dreary world.

Come on, boys, give the world a break.

Follow the example set by your betters and grow a moustache.—G.H.M., in The Argosy Weekly.

BLONDES—BRUNETTES

Blondes look their best in the daytime, best of all before noon. Brunettes are more attractive, show more vitality in the evening.

Investigators say that's because the energy of the dark complexioned girl is more enduring, their nerve cells richer to fortify them against fatigue. As a rule, blondes are livelier than brunettes in the morning, but they get tired quicker, are quicker to fret and worry.

There seems to be some good advice here for blondes. They ought to go to bed early nights.—Liberty.

Brown: "Smith tips his caddie."
Jones: "That isn't a tip—it's hush money."

Local Teacher: "Can you tell me what makes the Tower of Pisa lean?"
Very Stout Lady: "I don't know, or I'd try it myself."

Whose Savings Will be Next?

The money the people of this Province borrowed was used to provide them the houses, barns, and lands which now give them shelter and in which they do business. They have used them, and they continue to do so. Should they not recognize those who made it possible for them to have those things? Is it just that those who have saved, and who have been thrifty, to provide you with the facilities you possess should now be deprived of their savings?

Let those who look upon the lending companies as "big business," enquire whose money they have enjoyed. They will learn, as we shall tell them in one of the statements to follow.

If the citizens of Alberta pass by lightly the injustice of this Act, what is to prevent their own savings, their homes, their business, their farms and other possessions being taken away from them? Can they feel safe in the enjoyment of their savings? Keep in mind that the confiscation of the property of others is only the first step leading to the confiscation of yours.

You have been told that our Government does not intend to confiscate. The Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act would confiscate the savings of hundreds of thousands of people. Whose savings will be taken next?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 14 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

(The third statement in this series will be published in two weeks.)

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

The St. Andrew's Caledonian whist drive and dance held in the L.O.O.F. hall on Thursday last was very well attended. Whist prizes were won by J. Hillary, gents' first; Mrs. J. Koestgen, second; Mrs. B. Saynor, ladies' first; Mrs. R. Blake, second. After lunch, dancing was enjoyed till midnight.

C. Peterson was called to Calgary, where his mother passed away the early part of the week.

Little Edward Cardie is a patient in the St. Vincent hospital at Pincher Creek, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Higgins and family have moved here from the northern part of the province.

The annual bazaar and tombola held in the Catholic hall on Saturday by the Catholic Women's League, was a huge success. The afternoon was taken up with the serving of tea and the sale of fancy work, candy, cooking and a grab box. The evening was spent in the playing of bingo and drawing for the tombola prizes. The C.W.L. appreciate the kindness of everybody who helped to make the bazaar a success.

Mrs. C. Woodward returned Saturday night from a several days' visit to Calgary.

W. Marcolin, of the teaching staff, was confined to his home for a couple of days through illness.

Miss K. Costick, who is teaching north of Lacombe, spent the week end at the home of her parents here.

Turn About.

"Steak and spuds," rasped out the famished customer.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, beaming, "and will there be anything else? How about lamb chops and peas?"

"No, I want steak."

"How about some nice beef and Yorkshire?"

"No; steak," said the customer, becoming slightly red about the face.

"Crab salad, or perhaps you prefer our pork pie?" smiled the other.

"I ordered steak—" began the customer.

Just then the manager intervened.

"What do you mean by all this nonsense, waiter?" he asked. "I distinctly heard this gentleman say steak."

"That's all right, sir," replied the waiter. "I'm just making him feel at home. He's the barber at the end of my street."—Everybody's.

Billie: "Where is the paint remover?"

Mother: "Why, what do you want it for?"

Billie: "Sister wants something to wash her face with."

They had been married just about two months. Lunch was in progress.

"Darling?" he said suddenly. "This steak tastes funny."

"Oh, yes, dear," she replied, "I forgot to tell you. I burnt it, so I put some vasoline on it."

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Gerald Bradshaw left on Saturday last for an extended visit to England.

John Dutko, after sojourning in this country for several years, left Saturday last for a visit to his home in Czechoslovakia.

The Cowley Christmas tree and concert will be held in Wilson's hall on Friday evening, December 18th. A specially good programme is being prepared.

The prizes at the community whist drive, held on Wednesday evening of this week were won as follows: ladies' first and second, Mrs. C. J. Bundy and Miss Regena Maisonneuve; gents' first and second, Lloyd Shoemaker and Emil Franz. Court whist was played.

Mrs. George Porter and Miss Marion Morrison were hostesses for the evening. The next community drive will be held in aid of the Cowley Christmas Tree fund on Wednesday, December 16th. A dance will follow the drive.

Edgar Cowin, of Calgary, made a trip down to attend the funeral of the late Lou Lemire on Friday last.

"We'll rehearse that," said the undertaker, as the coffin fell out of the car.

Judge: "You say the officer arrested you while you were quietly minding your own business?"

Prisoner: "Yes, your honor."

Judge: "You were quietly attending to your own business, making no noise or disturbance of any kind?"

Prisoner: "None whatever, sir."

Judge: "What is your business?"

Prisoner: "I'm a burglar."

THE PERSISTENT HECKLER

At an English political meeting the hall was crowded to the point of suffocation when a scrawny little man about 5 feet 6 inches, bald, and weighing 112 pounds, finding himself imbedded in a mass of burly humanity, unable to move or see the platform, and, hearing little of the address, began piping:

"What did Gladstone say in '78?"

In spite of the usual cries from various people in the audience to "shut up," the little man persisted until two policemen rushed him to the entrance, pushed him out, and told him to stay out. One of the officers, thinking he would have the satisfaction of knowing what the great statesman had said, inquired, of the ejected heckler: "And what did Gladstone say in '78?" He nearly collapsed when the reply came back: "D—d if I know what he said, but I didn't intend to be suffocated."

"What the deuce are you doing down there in the cellar?" asked the puzzled rooster.

"Well, if it's any of your darn business," replied the hen, "I'm laying in a supply of coal!"

"What's that eldest son of yours doing now?"

"Oh, he's writing dope for a fly sheet."

"And his brother?"

"Well, he's not worth a cent, either!"

Surgery of the Seas

Dr. Adam N. Beattie, surgeon of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, and his ship's nurse, Miss Margaret Grant Allan, who are shown here, performed two delicate operations during the ship's round trip to the Far East, via Honolulu, just completed in Vancouver. On the outward trip, between Honolulu and Yokohama, the liner's huge turbines were stilled for nearly an hour while Dr. Beattie removed a ruptured duodenal ulcer from a Chinese passenger. On the homeward trip, between Hong Kong and Shanghai, the London, Ont. doctor's skill was again called into play when a Chinese saloon steward was stricken with acute appendicitis. Both patients are recovering well, the physician reported. Dr. Beattie, former house physician at Vancouver's St. Paul's hospital, and graduate of University of Western Ontario's medical school at London, Ont., stated that the Empress of Japan's splendidly equipped operating room made the operations little different in practice from any performed in large hospitals. His assistant, Miss Allan, is a graduate of St. Paul's hospital, Saskatoon. "She has been in the Empress of Japan for the past three and a half years and previously was in the Empress of Russia. Dr. Beattie first went to sea in 1923 aboard the Canadian-Australasian liner "Niagara" out of Vancouver.

A "Siamese twins" case was reported at Pincher Creek last week, when the attached babies were born to Mr. and Mrs. H. Breidigan. The birth took place in St. Vincent's hospital. But the babies were dead at birth.

You can make a musical instrument in this way. Take a piece of soft wood, about six inches long. Into this knock eight pins of various depths. The further the pin is driven in the wood, the higher the note. Tap the pins with a pencil and you will find that you are able to play simple tunes.

We were pleased on Monday to have had a friendly visit from Mr. E. R. J. Forster, of Lethbridge. On his visit to The Pass, Mr. Forster took occasion to call on as many as possible of his old-time acquaintances—and we were, not among the oldest—Mr. Forster is actively connected with the Alberta Motor Association.

The annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association was held at Halifax on November 19 and 14. In addressing the convention, Premier Angus L. MacDonald stated: "The weekly newspaper has a steady influence. News they present has the benefit of much thought, because that interval of a week allows one to weigh the news more carefully."

You have heard people say they "worked like a dog" all day. If this is literally true, the 24 hours would be spent thus, according to the Tavistock (Ontario) Gazette. One hour dig-bone, one hour waiting for a cat to come down out of a tree, half an hour begging to get into the house, and the rest of the time sleeping on a mat in front of a door.

Since our last issue we learn that we were misinformed at the depot on the 22nd to the effect that Eric Hornquist, star goalie, was to return to Kimberley from Calgary. We understand since that Eric will accompany the Dynamiters on their exhibition hockey tour of Europe. We really did wonder how the team could get along successfully without him.

Herman Treble, Wombly farmer, who has become famous for the quality of wheat he grows on his northern Alberta farm, won the wheat championship for the fifth time at the Chicago international hay and grain show. He won the title on his return to competition after three years' enforced idleness, following three previous consecutive wins. Treble was a former resident and building contractor of the Crows' Nest Pass.

Mr. Moses Bartlett, who was mate on Peary's steamer, and the other Newfoundlanders comprising the crew, returned home Sunday, having left the steamer at North Sydney, eager to turn their faces homeward. They tell an awful tale of hardships endured in the frozen north. They spent nearly four months on shifting ice floes, and their food running short they were compelled to eat some of their dogs. Of course Peary gets credit for the trip, but Newfoundlanders performed the work and endured the hardships—Newfoundland news item 30 years ago.

The service at the United church on Sunday evening was very largely attended. The West Canadian Collieries band was present in full force, rendered several pleasing selections and accompanied the singing. The service was in charge of Mr. W. Dutton, who was assisted by a number of local laymen, while the speaker of the evening was Mr. E. R. J. Forster, of Lethbridge, who gave highlights of the recent general assembly of the United Church of Canada, held in Ottawa. The band occupied the greater part of the platform, while the church junior orchestra took a position in the gallery. At the close of the service a unanimous vote of thanks and appreciation was accorded the band by the congregation.

Why try to establish confidence in the Alberta Prosperity Certificates? Why not have a bon-fire and burn the crazy money up, as it is not getting the unemployed, the merchants, or the government anywhere.—Drum holler Review.

At a retail merchants' meeting recently held in Alberta, one member suggested that they open the meeting with a hymn, as did the Social Credit gatherings. So they sang heartily: "Rescue the perishing, care for the dying." Then, the hotelmen, in annual session in Calgary, sang a song: "Drink to me only with thine eyes."

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald, of the Empire hotel, Coleman, motored to Cardston on Sunday last, accompanied by their two daughters. Miss Penelope McDonald, a recent graduate from the Edmonton University hospital, remained in the Temple city, where she has secured a position on the hospital staff as nurse.

Eleven years ago, a resident of Canada, returning from a visit to the British Isles, apparently failed to declare at customs certain goods, the duty on which was approximately ten dollars. Recently, the collector at Montreal received a letter from the lady in question, now residing in Bristol, England, in which she said this incident had worried her, and to ease her conscience she enclosed a money order for two pounds.

A Pass follower of Social Credit expressed real joy a few days ago when he heard that Social Credit "banks" were being established in Pass towns. He remarked: "Well, it's about time, for our present banks refuse to lend us money." And, to the average thinker, the present banks are acting wisely. There are more than one of the Aberhart followers who have an idea that if Mr. Aberhart establishes banks (clearing houses, to wit) that he can give them a large share of deposits.

In the guessing contest staged by the Toothills (Canada) Limited, art publishers, manufacturers and designers of Christmas Greeting Cards, Winnipeg, Miss Ivy Snod, of Blairmore, was declared a successful winner. The question asked was: "What cards in the samples would prove most popular during the months of October and November. Miss Snod luckily picked near the correct three, securing one of the twenty merchandise prizes. The three best sellers were Nos. 101, 311 and 293. See these samples at The Enterprise office and order your cards now. It is not too late. In addition The Enterprise has an assortment of some 500 different designs to choose from. Restoration Fund

Loss Of $758,000 Suffered By Church Of England Is Fully Made Up

A loss of $758,000 which the Church of England in Canada suffered four years ago as a result of maladministration of its Rupert's Land working fund has been more than fully recovered, Rev. Canon Sidney Gould, general secretary of missions, told a capacity congregation in All Saints' church at Windsor, Ont.

The effort on the part of church members and clergy has had the effect of vindicating the honor, not only of Anglicans but of the whole Christian church, Canon Gould believed. But greater still, he contended, it had maintained the honor of the Master of the church.

Contributions ranging from more than $5,000 to a few pennies came in, Canon Gould said, but among the outstanding examples of spiritual heroism was the case of an Indian woman in the far north.

The squaw came to him at the close of a sermon and insisted he take from her $2 from her $5-a-year treaty money. The $5 represented the only assured income the woman had during the 12-month period.

Another example cited by Canon Gould was that of an elderly English-born lady who looked forward all her life to going back to her home in England, toward which her life savings were gathered. So impressed was she at the loss suffered by the church, she gave up the idea of the trip and turned over her entire savings to the fund.

More Spoils On Sun

A row of huge sunspots, more than 1,250,000 miles long and resembling a titanic necklace, has appeared on the face of the sun. Dr. Dinmore Alter, director of Griffith Observatory, Los Angeles, described them as the most impressive spot group ever seen at the observatory. Sun spots are generally associated with periodic weather changes on earth.

May Rival The Moon

Astronomer Notes One Star Is Increasing In Brilliance

Revealing that the star Gamma Cassiopeiae suddenly has increased in brightness until it is now twice its usual illumination, Perkin's Observatory astronomer at Delaware, Ohio, expressed the possibility it may sometime rival the moon.

Gamma Cassiopeiae is located in the "Celestial W" constellation which may be seen now in the zenith after midnight.

Dr. Ernest Cherrington, Perkin's astronomer, said he first noted the increased brilliance of the star October 5, from which date it has continued to grow in brightness.

How bright this star will become, nobody knows, said Prof. N. T. Bobrovnikov, Ohio Wesleyan University astronomy professor.

"Gamma Cassiopeiae belongs to an unusual group of stars possessing extensive atmospheres which are not stable as the atmosphere of most stars."

JUNIOR'S GAY TWO-PIECE "SETS THE FASHION" IN HER SET

By Anne Adams

Sure to be the pride of a Junior's wardrobe is Pattern 4216, and a style-setter for the rest of her fashion-conscious set! So easy to make is this jaunty two-piece that a Teen-age Miss may cut and stitch it all by herself! There's variety in the choice of long or short sleeves, and see how the blouse may be worn outside the trim skirt or tucked in, shirtwaist fashion. Why not make several versions of this practical frock? Match the two pieces, and turn the frock up in cotton-tweed, velvet, crepe or chamois; then make it again with a wool skirt, contrasting crepe or cotton blouse. Economical, isn't it? Aren't the Peter Pan collar, contrasting bow and patch pocket smart?

Pattern 4216 is available in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 14 takes 2 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Sew twenty cents (20c) in coin or stamps (coin preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number, and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Prize-Winning Apples

Apple growing in Canada Dates Back To Early Pioneer Days Canadian apples, which are famous all over the world for their delightful flavor and fine quality, made a good showing at the Imperial Fruit Show at Liverpool, England, this year when Canadian exhibitors won 23 prizes. British Columbia growers won six first prizes; five seconds and two thirds, while Nova Scotia apples took seven first and three seconds. Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, the other Canadian provinces producing apples in commercial quantities, did not compete.

Apple growing in Canada dates back to the early pioneer days. History records the establishment of apple and pear orchards in the first settlements in Nova Scotia over three hundred years ago by French settlers, and the Annapolis Valley, made famous by Longfellow in his immortal poem, "Evangeline," has for many generations been one of the most widely known apple-producing sections in North America. In the Province of Quebec there are records of apples growing three hundred years ago. In Ontario the first apple trees were planted about 1760, and in British Columbia about 1850.

The Canadian climate is well suited to the production of high quality apples, and the industry, originally intended to provide apples, apple cider and vinegar for home consumption has developed to such an extent that Canadian apples now find their way to practically all parts of the world. In 1935 the Canadian crop totalled 4,432,700 barrels, and exports to 44 countries included 2,541,217 barrels of fresh apples.

In the early days of apple growing in Canada little attention was paid to varieties; apples were just apples. Improvement in transportation and storage facilities, the development of export and home markets, and more knowledge gained of the market demand were accompanied by experimental and research work designed to develop the most suitable varieties and the best methods of growing and handling. There are now in Canada good varieties of apples with keeping qualities which enable them to be stored and made available for consumption through practically the entire year.

Huge Medieval Czechoslovakian Vaults Houses Thousands Of Refugees

Huge medieval vaults, discovered under the palace of the Czechoslovakian Senate during reconstruction work, will be turned into the world's largest air raid shelter. In case of an enemy air attack, it will give refuge to ten thousand people. The palace, which is centuries old, formerly housed the Diet of the Kingdom of Bohemia. About Great Men

Something Always To Be Gained By Good Company

Great men, taken up in any way, are profitable company. We cannot look, however imperfectly, upon a great man, without gaining something by him. He is the living light-house which it is good and pleasant to be near—the light which enlightens the darkness of the world that it is well with him. No nobler feeling than this of admiration, for one higher than himself.

Games That Will Survive

Poker will long survive bridge as a card game, Prof. Ramsay Traquair, department of architecture head at McGill University, told members of the Electrical Club at Montreal. Professor Traquair also said catchball, oldest and simplest of all ball games, will be played long after tennis and rugby.

PAUL'S PARTING COUNSELS

Golden text: I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith. II Timothy 4:7.

Lesson: I Timothy 6; II Timothy 4; Titus 2.

Devotional reading: Psalm 121.

Explanations And Comments

Concerning Things Worth While, I Timothy 6:11-16. Addressing Timothy directly as a "man of God," Paul bids him avoid the things of which he has been speaking and strive to attain integrity, piety, faith, love, steadfastness and purity, as Moffatt translates the list. God would have those who bear his name strive for a prize far better than money. Prove your righteousness before God, measure them by the example of Jesus Christ, for this is true riches. Strive for faith which will sustain you in times of severest trial. Strive for love, the love which is long-suffering and kind.

Strive for meekness, such as you have seen exemplified in Jesus, who was patient at all times, even when spat upon and derided, and learn from him that the meek shall inherit the earth. Strive for the love which is more than gold. He who attains such riches, he is not alone blessed but he will share the riches with him who will perish? Such have chosen the better part which shall not be taken from them, even when they die.

I charge you to keep your commission free from stain, free from reproach, till the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ—which will be brought about in the time by that blessed one who appears, whom no kings and Lord of lords, who alone has immortality, who dwells in light and who will appear on a Friday, be riches which will perish? Such have chosen the better part which shall not be taken from them, even when they die.

Crown and Howard, 2 Timothy 4:6-8. Referring to his approaching martyrdom as if already accomplished, Paul writes: For I am already being offered, and the time of my departure is come. And then he gives voice to his triumphant confession: I have fought a good fight—I have contended earnestly in the good contest, for it is the athlete that has his mind; like runner, in the games I have finished the course; as contestants keep the rules of the games, so I have kept the rules of life's course, I have trusted in God, I have kept the faith. Hereafter there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day.

Deficiency Diets

Ill Health Results From Lack Of Mineral Salts

When it is well known that ill health will result from the lack of adequate amounts of lime, phosphorus, iodine, iron, and other essential mineral salts in the diet, why not avoid these dangerous diet deficiencies by the simple, pleasant and inexpensive expedient of including in the regular menu plenty of Canadian fish and shellfish—fresh, frozen, canned, dried, pickled, smoked? They are nourishing, health-guarding and ready to the housewife's hand in teeming variety. Why starve in the midst of plenty when these fine-flavored, easily digested Canadian fish foods—from sea and freshwater—high in protein, rich in vitamins, and veritable storehouses of essential salts are readily available all the year 'round?

An Old Scottish Ballad

Preserved without the slightest change of syllable or accent through 300 years, a Scottish ballad has been discovered in Kentucky by Marjorie Gullan, chairman and director of studies of the Speech Institute of London, England. She said the Kentuckian composition has its exact counterpart in modern Scotland.

A Cyclist's Paradise

Friday The Thirteenth

Will Not Make Another Appearance Until August 1937

It has never been proven that anything unfortunate really happened to anyone simply because Friday was dated up with the 13th but superstition by any other name, be it legend, tradition or usage, needs no factual precedent to make folks wary.

Friday, the 13th, made his jittery appearance twice this year, with no more significance than the old wives' fortunes that he achieved 1900 years ago when some humorist of the period discovered the Gregorian calendar would present this combination 10 times every five years till the end of time—or so the calendar.

Origin of the idea 13 as an unlucky number is variously credited. Astrologers of ancient Babylon so declared it. Mythologists of Old Scandinavia gave the number the curse of sages because Balder, their sun-god, had to die when 13 were found in the circle of Valhalla.

Some who would have it the idea originated with the Christian era point out there were 13 at the Last Supper, including Judas Iscariot, who next day, traditionally a Friday, betrayed Jesus Christ for crucifixion.

Friday the 13th is taking a long sabbatical. He will not appear again till August of 1937 and only the once that year.

In 1938 his only date with the weary world is in May, but in 1939 he resumes twice-a-year appearances, January and October, with return visits in September and December, 1940.

Value Of Boy Scout Training

Survey of juvenile court records by a member of the University of Michigan staff leads him to the assertion that Boy Scouts are only one-third as likely to become delinquents as are non-Scouts. People who know and appreciate the value of Scout training will readily believe the truth of that statement.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Canadian Public Libraries

Over 21 Million Books Loaned For Home Use During The Year

Public libraries in Canada during 1935 cost eighteen cents per capita, less than two per cent. of the cost of public schools, and about ten per cent. of the cost of universities and colleges. Public libraries in operation during the year numbered 642, and the expenditure on them was about two million dollars. They lent over 21 million volumes for home use and probably between one-third and one-half as many more to reading-room and reference-room borrowers. Canadian public libraries lent two books a year for every man, woman and child of the population.

In addition to the public libraries, which are primarily urban institutions, travelling libraries circulate in every province of Canada. The object of travelling libraries is to supplement the book stock of small public school libraries and to provide some public library service in communities otherwise without any. Three universities, Acadia, Dalhousie and St. Francis Xavier, conduct such a service in Nova Scotia, and McGill University circulates libraries in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Each of the five most westerly provinces operates a provincial system of travelling libraries with headquarters at the provincial capital.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —
GEORGIA CRAIG

"I suppose it was inevitable, but—well, I got jealous. How could I help it? Yes, jealous of every man you smiled at, forgetting that I was the one who told you to smile! I tried to tell myself that I hated you for your tantalizing indifference. I tried, right from the start, to think of you the worst of every worst. I didn't realize until I kissed you this afternoon that I love you; that I have loved you from the beginning."

There was a roaring clamor in Starr's head, a strange throbbing like the beat of jungle tom-toms in her veins, like the sound of those weird drums of the desert, made of stretched goatkins, that one heard when approaching an oasis. Uncanny, eerie, but so awfully, deliciously filled with a strange delight.

Michael loved her! The Hassan of her own Arabian Nights story loved her!

She tried to realize it, and realization brought a gushing wave of feeling right from the inmost depths of her being, like nothing she had ever known before, or dreamed of. The first real thing in her life, especially in this swift merry-go-round of crazy days and nights. Michael loved her! She did not realize it at just that moment he found her hands. She only knew of a sudden that he was holding them, crushing them in a strong grip that hurt and thrilled at the same time. He was begging; his voice was humble.

"It's not too late, is it, Starr? Say it! We'll go away from here. I have enough money. I don't think I ever want to hear of the world again—except for what it will bring to you and me, if you'll say so—just what I already have. We'll go somewhere where no one has ever heard of that wretched 'Play-Girl.' We'll start all over again, in a home of our own where everything will be different. . . . There was an ache in his voice that petitioned: 'Starr! Say something!'"

In the darkness her lips moved wordlessly. What could she say? Michael loved her! She had brought him to this, deliberately. The tantalizing indifference of which he spoke had been as far from that as it was possible to be. It had been part of a carefully thought-out, elaborate campaign for vengeance against him—and against Stephanie Dale. She had wanted to humble the proud Michael to her feet, and then she would have laughed at him and tossed her head at the overbearing egotistic Stephanie Dale with all her Peter Stuyvesant ancestry! Sweet revenge!

In this moment of realization, revenge was a booming which completed its vicious parabola and landed squarely on Starr Ellison's own black head. Because she knew in this startling moment that she loved him, too, that a despairing love of him had been the reason for most of the blackest moments of the days since she had known him. That realization overhadowed everything else, even the upheld scepter of the Grim Reaper which was always menacing her.

She loved him, and in all her for-bidden dreams she had never visualized that love would be like this, an overwhelmingly emotional, throat-choking storm beside which all other emotions she had ever known paled into insignificance. A grand, mad passion that rocked body and soul. The same sort of passion that Tut-Amen-Ita had known for the lovely priestess, Ama-Sun, so that he meant to be near her in time and eternity. . . .

Cursing to the depths of his own soul any one who should ever disturb their side-by-side. So much Starr Ellison understood now, in one brief, flashing moment that she had never understood before. A poignant pity for the disturbed lovers in their tomb in far-away Egypt, near the fringe of the Valley of the Queens, swept over her. Now she knew!

Michael's warm hands were gripping hers, pleading as was his voice.

"Starr! Say something!"

What could she say? What could she offer this man whose dearest ideal was fine sons, and beautiful daughters? She would make him a widow almost before he was a bridegroom! She would ruin his life.

Suddenly her ears began to ring with an ominous jarring rhythm. It was all around her in the air. "Thou Shalt Not—Thou Shalt Not. . . . The curse of her life!"

Again an imaginary parade passed before her eyes, bringing the greatest heartbreak a woman could know. Sturdy little men with clear gray eyes like Michael's; little girls who looked like Stephanie. They must look like Stephanie; they could never be like Michael. She was with a wild, yearning dream of motherhood; and with her pitiful few months left to live!

She strained against his enveloping arms.

"Michael, let me go!"

He only laughed—the confident laugh of a conquering lover.

"Why should I let you go, when I've only just found you?"

His lips were on her again—she was afloat on that sea of languorous delight. . . . Why did she give him back his life, when she was to give a single moment the thrill of the rapture of love given and returned? And she knew she wanted him to speak—as he was—whispering the crazy sort of things lovers always whisper when they are in love.

She was with a wild, yearning dream of motherhood; and with her pitiful few months left to live!

She strained against his enveloping arms.

so ready to forgive, to take all blame to himself! If only that were all that lay between them—if only that a thing like that, with all it implied, were what was keeping them apart! If only she could have flung herself into his arms and cried:

"I made a mistake, Michael-Hassan! A terrible mistake. But I'm ready to make up for it—for anything—by giving you my whole future, by devoting it, myself, all the love of my full heart, to making you happy!"

How bitter those words: "If only—"

Another voice suddenly cut through the darkness. A form was materializing, outlined against the lighted open window. Lance Marlowe this time. Seeking a promised dance. Starr had never been so glad to see Lance since the first time she had met him. She held out her hands to him, laughing.

"It's nice to see I'm not forgotten, Michael! I'm dying to dance!"

Lance said swiftly, under his breath:

"Don't go like this, Starr, without giving me an answer!"

She managed a stricken whisper. "I can't tonight, Michael—honestly."

"Give me a few hours—say tomorrow night at Lance's party at the Sea Beach Casino." And then she fled from him.

As the lights from the ball room struck Starr's face when he led her to the open window, Lance said to her:

"You look as if you'd been seeing ghosts out there, Starr."

She murmured: "I have." And for once her painted lips were not smiling.

CHAPTER XI.

Starr was not certain she had been asleep at all when the small ivory telephone at her bedside whirled her to an awakening. Sleepily she picked it up. The voice calling out of the bright morning made her heart spin to a dizzy, then stop altogether. Michaela's voice!

"If he only knew that it was the remembered tones of that voice which had kept her awake until the sun was high!"

It was a cheerful voice, and if he had ever had a rebuff Michaela's face appeared to have forgotten it. There was an undercurrent of excitement even in his light tone and words.

"Starr?" He heard her sleepy murmur answer. "What! Not awake yet? Arise and shine, honey—I'm coming over!"

Starr was awake on the instant. She shivered in the jarring warmth of the room and the silk and lace of her luxurious bed.

"No, Michael! You can't! Didn't I tell you? I'll be seeing you at Lance's party—tonight."

She meant to hang up, but somehow she didn't. It was so wonderful to hear Michael's voice—just to hear it.

"Wait!" he was calling through the air. "Don't you dare hang up on me, woman! You hear me?"

"But, Hassan—I'm sleepy—"

"No 'buts'—get into some clothes, honey. . . . I know you said you'd give me a answer tonight, but I'm not going to wait. Be awake since the party thinking everything over! I've got to see you now! Get that! It's almost noon, anyway. . . . You should have had your beauty sleep—"

he laughed. "As if you needed it! I'm coming over, child—and that's the whole answer. We're going to have lunch beneath the mumblyrhay windows, or whatever you call 'en-dates, and little black loaves, gobs of milk I can find any, and a jug of wine and a narghlee—Make you feel at home! I've got to see my desert princess now—do you get that?"

Masterful Michael! Not the humble Michael of the night before, but an exultant Michael with an acceptable-lover tone. . . . He was so sure! Starr's heart felt like a dull leaden weight as she hung up the phone. And why should he not feel assured? Her heart had said things to him last night that her lips had denied.

He knew—he knew. . . . Panic struck her suddenly, as she got quickly out of bed. Michael was coming. He had refused to accept her denial. She must not see him. Not yet! Not yet! What was she to tell him? How could she let him know? Her brain whirled in a dizzy maze as she tried to think it out, her slim white hands; in which each vein tightly against the hot bead that refused to give her an answer.

Only one thing she knew. She must not see Michael until she had at least formulated some plan for what their future course of action would be. To see him, too, might take from her all her will power to deny the love that was a consuming flame. There was only one answer. Michael's coming, was even then on his way.

CRAWLED UPSTAIRS ON ALL FOURS

Owing to Rheumatism in Her Knees

It was not a very dignified way of going upstairs, but she had rheumatism in her knees, and it was the best she could do, at the time. Since then, she has been taking Kruschen Salt, and now feels much better. Read her letter:—

"I had very painful gout in my big toe and could only get upstairs on all fours owing to rheumatism in my knees. It is over three years ago since I commenced taking Kruschen Salt. I must say a little good, but my knees are quite better. I am over 60 years of age, have a complexion like a girl's and feel very fit. I am fully repaid for taking a half teaspoonful of Salt each morning in a cup of hot water."

(Mrs. A.W.)

The pain and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action, and help you to get rid of the excess acid which is the cause of so much suffering.

Must Be Taught Courage

Fear Plays Large Part in Life Of Some Children

Few adults realize what a large part is played by fear in the life of a child. Some there are who can recall their early days and nights when fear was a very real and terrible sensation and these will look with kindly tolerance upon the child's unreasoning terrors. Fear of the darkness, fear of punishment, fear of failure in physical and mental contests, all influence the lives of many children, crippling and handicapping in the rest of life.

Parents and teachers should above all things seek to avoid awakening this fear in the child. If the baby cries because he is afraid of the dark, by all means let him have a light.

The trouble lies farther back in the child's life, and only a reasonable lenience can correct it. If later he has done wrong, he must be corrected, but not made to fear his punishment, but to accept it as his right due. If as a result he hesitates to enter mental contests, he should be urged to do so, not because of the reward he may win, but because of the good the effort will do him.

Nothing is so beautiful as a fearless action. He will tell the truth where the timid child will lie to escape punishment. He will escape physical dangers because of his lack of fear and will use judgment and common sense in regard to risks, where the fearful child will fall a victim to his own lack of initiative. Fear weakens the body and fuddles the mind. Teach the child courage.

Soldiers Like Smart Uniform

Blue Outfit Might Attract Recruits Says War Secretary

Alfred Duff Cooper, secretary of war, said he thought the uniform a soldier has to wear might be partly responsible for the difficulties in recruiting.

The customary khaki, he said at a recruiting luncheon, was neither pleasing to the eye nor was it connected with pleasant associations.

He said he believed the solution lay in granting men, both of the regular and territorial armies, a smart blue uniform which some have now purchased for themselves and which they have been allowed to wear "walking out."

His greatest ambition in connection with it was to see that a soldier was able to guarantee every soldier leaving the army at the end of his period of service with a good character that he would pass straight into a good job.

No Blue Dahlias

Fame and fortune await the producer of a blue dahlia, George A. Richardson, dahlia grower, told the Kiwanis Club at Cincinnati, Ohio. Richardson said blue is the color of every color except blue. He had been producing in sizes ranging from one-half an inch to fourteen inches in diameter. He said a blue success awaited the producer of a yellow sweet pea.

A Notable Compliment

George Robertson Of Ottawa Selected As Judge Of New York Poultry Show

A notable compliment has been paid to Canada by a United States organization. The North Eastern Poultry Producers' Company requested the services of George Robertson of Ottawa, Assistant Dominion Poultry Husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, Dominion Department of Agriculture, to act as judge to select what is known as the hen of the year at their poultry show which was held in New York City from November 10 to 14, 1936. This show is one of the leading annual exhibitions of poultry in the United States and the request for a Canadian judge was regarded as one of the highest possible compliments in the realm of poultry judging.

When the invitation came to act as judge at New York, Mr. Robertson replied that he was booked to act at the same time at the Ottawa Winter Fair, where for thirty years in succession he had acted as judge. However, the promoters of the New York show wired that the matter was one of tremendous importance to the American Poultry Association and to the poultry industry as a whole that he should make the award in the major competition of the New York Show. The management of the Ottawa Winter Fair, therefore, considered that, in view of what might be regarded as a distinct compliment to Canada, he should go to New York; and for the first time in 30 years George Robertson did not judge at Ottawa.

It was only recently that another high honour was paid Mr. Robertson when at the convention of the American Poultry Judges' Association, held at Topeka, Kansas, in September, 1936, he was elected president of the association. This is the first time since 1878 that a Canadian has been elected president. Mr. Robertson was further honoured by being elected to the very responsible position of chair of the Standards Revision Committee of the American Poultry Association. For several years he has been a judge at the leading poultry shows throughout Canada and the United States.

Cannot Be Abolished

Atholl Highlanders Given Royal Patent By Queen Victoria

Law or no law, the Duke of Atholl's little army cannot be abolished.

When Great Britain's public order will receive final sanction from parliament. If as a result he hesitates to enter mental contests, he should be urged to do so, not because of the reward he may win, but because of the good the effort will do him.

Their immunity to the law dates from 1845 when Queen Victoria, after first visiting Scotland, granted the Duke of Atholl's grandfather a royal patent.

Victoria, it is said, was so delighted with the 200 killed clansmen, armed with their Scottish battle-axes, that she suggested they be converted into a standing army and presented with regimental colours.

Although the Atholl Highlanders never have appeared in the army list, the war office recognizes their existence.

In feudal times, when the Highlanders were organized to fight for the Dukes of Atholl against clans, they were a real fighting force. Now, if as a result he hesitates to enter mental contests, he should be urged to do so, not because of the reward he may win, but because of the good the effort will do him.

Balloons Provide Mystery

Found On Ontario Farm Are Dated October 1934

A cluster of 27 large rubber balloons, of the type used by meteorologists to check wind currents in the upper air, have been discovered on a farmer's place near Richmond, Ontario. One was still inflated. There were no identifying marks, but a date, "October, 1934," stamped on one of the balloons indicated they might have travelled a long distance before coming down in this community 25 miles west of Ottawa.
